

HOTEL ANSORGE:
SOMETHING'S IN THE KITCHEN

Something's in the Kitchen

A home is many things and many rooms, each with a purpose. Meals are in the dining room and the best furniture is in the front room. And yet, without thinking, everyone naturally gravitates toward the kitchen. What is it that makes the kitchen such an attraction? Sure, it's where you can see the food being prepared, smell those wonderful aromas and be the very first to taste the goodies. Maybe you get to stir the pots and pans, or read the recipes on old, stained cards in a wooden box. But best of all, you can rub shoulders with the cook and tell stories with the others gathered in that welcoming part of the house. The dining room is nice, the living room is more presentable, but when you come into the kitchen you become a friend — and that is why everyone loves being there.
